Furious Storm. Louisville, Ky., May 23.--Again the wind has worked its will upon Louis ville. Dwellings are ruined, streets are filled with the wreckage of roofs, with broken and uprooted trees, remnants of walls and twisted wires. No lives are known to be lost and few of the injuries received are serious. At 4 o'clock belated people saw a low. black cloud, with greenish fringe, sweep ing up swiftly from the southwest. The low struck the south of the city first, marking its destructive forces first upon the Louisville and Nashville roundhouse, it Tenth and Broadway. From there on the centre of the city suffered little save by chimneys blown down and trees upmoted. The full force of the wind struck the squares bounded by Campbell, Hancock, Broadway and Green streets, and there the principal damage was done.

When the storm struck the city eight vorkmen in charge of James Dadigan, night foreman at the Louisville and ashville round-house, at Tenth and Broadway, were busy about the engines. As the wind struck the circular building the roof was lifted free from all fastenngs and then, as a lull came, dropped rom its own weight squarely upon the tructure. The walls stood the pressure, out the roof crashed down upon the inærior.

The heavy engines were overturned like tops. As the roof was lifted each man crept into the pit beneath his engine and there lay safe and unscathed until the storm passed. The walls are still standing and the damage to the building will not exceed $5,000. The damage to the engines will be less than half that mount.

CLEVELAND, OHIO, May 23 .- Four en were instantly killed and several injured in a terrific wind-storm that ocurred here this morning. A scaffold on high chimney twenty feet above the six-story Bradley building, at Superior and Erie streets, was blown down. The men engaged on it had descended on the approach of the storm. The scaffold fell in the midst of a party of employes of the Cleveland Gaslight and Coke Company, who were laying a pipe in the street. DETROIT, May 23.—Rain, driven by a sixty-mile-an-hour wind, broke over this city this morning. Many shade trees throughout the city were blown down. Cass avenue and other streets are so thickly strewn with broken limbs and runks as to be almost impassable. Great damage was done by high winds tt Adrian. At Lenawee Junction, five miles east, it amounted to a ternado. Two barns were blown down, numerous orchards were destroyed and houses lefvithout chimneys or window-glass. Crops are leveled to the ground, Indianapolis, May 23.—Indiana was wept by a storm about 4 o'clock this morning. In the eastern and scythern portions of the State the wind blew with the greatest force. At Jeffersonville week ago Tuesday, I was ironing; it many houses were unroofed and trees was a powerful hot morning, and the over an embankment and severely injured. CHEAPENED ALUMINUM.-The pro luction of aluminum in the United States in 1892 was 294,313 pounds—a figure which surprises persons who are unaware of the fact that the world's production is now nearly doubled every year. The old process of producing by means of sodium has been cheapened until it is possible to make aluminum at a cost of $1 a pound. But by the Hall invention -an electrical process—the cost has been reduced to 50 cents a pound. But the electrical method does not produce the metal in mass. The current is passed through a mixture of carbon and alumina, with the result that the carbon takes the oxygen of the alumina and sets the aluminum free in fine particles, ready to mix with alloys. A recent invention of W. A. Baldwin facilitates the making of alloys. This inventor brings iron, for example, in a molten state in contact | The folks want me to give up the place Common salt and charcoal material. On Fanne's eternal camping ground

Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards, with solemn round,
The blyong of the days. The bivouse of the dead, No rumor of the foe's advance

Now swells upon the wind; No troubled thought at midnight haunts Of loved ones left behind; vision of the morrow's strife The warrior's dreams alarms No braying horn or screaming fin At dawn shall call to arms, Their shivered swords are red with rust; Their plumed heads are bowed; Their haughty banner, trailed in dust, Is now their martial shroud;

And plenteous funeral tears have wash. The red stains from each brow; And the proud forms, by battle gashed Are free from angulsh now. The neighing troop, the flashing blade, The bugle's stirring blast, The charge, the dreadful cannonade, The din and shout, are past. Judge Cephas.

Happening soon after the close of the war to ride along the road past "Old Pop Castle," I observed a large and excited concourse of colored people standing under the famous oak at that place. Upon approaching and making inquiry I learned that Uncle Cephas-now Squire Bolden-who, along with some others of his race, had recently been appointed magistrate, was about to hold his first court.

Elbowing my way through the dense crowd till I reached and mounted one of the gnaried roots of the oak, I was enabled to overlook the sea of heads and survey the court. On the safest corner of a very unsteady shack frame was perched the presiding magistrate, his chony forchead, which bowed back without limit over his bald pute, covered with an appropriate from. The rest of the trame held the six jurymen, who leaned against or sat upon it according to each one's confidence in its stability. The prisoner, a vagabondish but harmless looking man, on whose crow black face fright was imprinted in an ashy cast. was wrapped up in ropes and placed in the middle of the shack frame for safe

The Warfare on Weeds. The matter of destroying weeds ha

een frequently discussed, but there is no portion of the work on the farm that deserves more attention than that of keeping down the weeds. The varieties of weeds are so numerous as to almost bewilder the farmer who is on the lookout for them, for they adapt themselves to all manner of conditions and make desperate struggles to seize and hold full possession of the ground that should be occupied by more profitable crops. If work is pressing in some depart nents the weeds are often given an opportunity to make full headway. When this is done they will have taken from the soil a large share of the plant food which the farmer placed there for the ready use of his crop, and if the season is dry the weeds will secure the moist-IN a small village in Maine there lives | ure that is required by the crops. > start is of great assistance to the crop. The weeds themselves teach a lesson in that respect, as they aim to get ahead of the crop as soon as possible. If any of the weeds are beyond the reach of the cultivator the hoe should be used, and in some locations it may be necessary to hand pull the weeds, in order not to permit one of them to go to seed. A single weed may produce a thousand seeds, to be carried by the winds over the whole farm, thus entailing labor at another time. If all weeds can be prevented from seeding there the earlier days, before the inva will be less work to do next year, and with thorough cultivation they may be exterminated, but the work must begin at this season, with no intermission began, one might travel through the rest into days without once seeing the clear light of day. And now, after the inroads of lumbermen have contiaued for many years, there are miles of impenetrable forest that he was reserved to the first of until frost appears. VANDALS DESECRATE A MONUMENT.—

Bethlehem, May 24.—Last night the soldiers' monument, erected by citizens of the won to the memory of the civil war, was descrated by unknown vardals. The miscreants raised a ladder to the top of the monument and mutilated the life-size status of a soldier. Grand Army men are indignant. Taylor post offered a reward for the apprehension of the culprits and public sentiment favors the severe castigation of the offenders.

-Put the hotbeds to use in some manner after the early plants have been taken out. It is just the place for cucumbers. Throw a pile of brush on ach side of the hothed and the vines will cover the support thus given.

-Tomato vines may be supported with stakes or by trellises, which prevent the fruit from rotting by permitting a free circulation of air, as well a keeping the fruit off the ground. — When the soil is stirred after a rain, nd made fine and loose, evaporation of the moisture from below is prevented. During a time of drought no better way to mitigate its effects can be resort ed to than that of loosening the top soil to the depth of one or two inches. The loose dirt serves as a covering, which protects the roots from the effects of the drying air and also assists in retain- Gettysburg Battlefield Tannery ing a supply of needed moisture.

-Dig around the peach trees and search for the borers. The use of kainit and soapsuds around the trunks will as sist in destroying insects that affect the ots. —Chicks that are hatched during this month will come too late to be sold as broilers, but they will sell readily as roasters late in the season. Capons and broilers are now bringing high prices, the demand being larger than the supply.

— Lambs can be made to grow very large, and in a short space of time, by extra care. Mr. P. P. Noel, of Rockville, Indiana, reports the weight of 67 pounds for a lamb 65 days old, of the Cheviot breed, and a lamb 100 days old, of the Oxford breed, at Wayne, Ill., belonging to a breeder there, reached 103 pounds. -Nitrate of soda is excellent for bringing the grass out green upon the lawn. After the lawn has been moved, and just before a rain, an application o 50 pounds of nitrate of soda, finely ground, will prove excellent. Recent trials with nitrate of soda on grass show that for every 50 pounds used upon grass land there was a gain in grass equel to $5 per acre. - Watermelons and cantaloupe should be planted now, as the ground is warm and the liability of the frost persaps over. Use plenty of manure in the hills and also broadcast a fertilizer of equal parts of potash, superphosphates and nitrate of soda on the ground, har rowing it into the soil. -With a dirty cow and a dirty, badly lighted and ill-ventilated stable, you need not expect to get a pure and whole some article of milk, no matter ho or how good a cow you may have. -In caring for the cows it is well far as possible to have them in the sam bands—not be changing day by day. Their individual characteristics and dis sitions should be studied and catere to in every possible way. -The construction of low wagons ing-machine wheels may be put. Se cure a dozen or more of the same size place a wooden frame and tongue and we have a very effective roller. →A good cistern, made with a filter and large enough to hold all the water that falls from the barn, is the safest and surest dependence that you can have for water for your stock. It will be pure and of the right temperature for use summer and wirter. -"Does poultry-keeping pay?" is always an open question for discussion among farmers. One way to decide this for yourself would be to invest say $40, the price of a good cow, in good fowls, and then take as much care of them as you would of the cow, and keep account of the expenses and receipts but remember that you would not let the cow's stable go a menth without being cleaned, nor would expect it to pick up its own living. Poultry keeping does pay, but how well depends upon the man and his methods.

-Watering a tree in dry weather only wets and crusts the surface. If a few inches of the top surface is removed before watering, it will last longer but the best way of all is to keep the soil and top surface constantly mellow. -A landscape architect of New Yorl says that the tulip tree stands at the head of all native trees, not only as an ornamental, but a clean tree, that is, freedom from insects.

-Vermin are the greatest foes of poultry, and a thorough fumigation will do the fowl-house good. Be sure the TRY THE CURE HAY-FEVER fowls are all shut out until the smoking is over and the house well ventilated. -An exchange advises building a grape arbor or summer house in which

National Forest Reserves

The people of the United States in gen eral, and of the State of California in partic alar, owe ex-Secretary of the Interior John . Noble an eternal debt of gratitude for vices to the cause of forest preservation save the Century.

By this policy there has been made first oining the Yesemite National Park by the addition of over 4,000,000 acres, compr ing that portion of the Sierra Nevada and most grandly beautiful in the United States. It contains over 6,000 square miles, with an altitude ranging from 3,000 to 15,000 teet, composed almost entirely of lof-y mountains and great canyons, and reaching the highest elevation in the Uoion, outside of Alaska. It includes the wonderoutside of Alaska. It includes the wonderful King's River canyon, called by Mr. John Muir "a rival of the Yosemite," and by him there suggested as a national reservation. This is, however, but a fraction of Secretary Noble's reserve, which includes nearly if not quite all the big tree (sequons gigantes) forests not before reserved, and has in addition the finest forests of sugar pine, cedar and other valuable trees known to the world. In addition to these attractions and treasures it is the source of the water supply of the San Joaquin valley, and as such the reservoir of the new wealth irrigation has developed in the arid lands of that now beautiful region. Mr. Cleveland's administration will probably continue this policy by making another reserve of the administration will probably continue this policy by making another reserve of the nothern Sierra, from the Yosemite national park to Mt. Shasta, But this is not all. Three other extensive mountain reserves on the Pacific slope have been created by the same wise policy—one extending from Los Angeles to San Bernardino, one thence eastward to the San Gargonia Pass and the third in the State of Washington, embracing Mt. Rainer—the three aggregatiog about 2,500,000 acres. Hardly less important is the reservation of the territory contiguous to the Grand canyon of the Colorado. The chief gain is primarly to California. By this series of official acts have been completed the reservation of a chain of forest uplands that now includes all the elevated region which innishes the water supply for the productive regions of California south of San Francisco.
